New Director chosen for Indiana Principal Leadership Institute

Dr. Kelly A. Andrews, formerly President of the Indiana Association of School Principals and a 20-year veteran of school administration, has been selected as the new Director of the Indiana Principal Leadership Institute (IPLI).

IPLI is by state statute operated at Indiana State University and the Bayh College of Education. It was established in 2013 in a bipartisan effort to strengthen education in the state by focusing on school principals and increasing their leadership capacities.

“Effective school principals are needed to lead efforts towards quality educational opportunities for all students,” Andrews said. “IPLI provides opportunities for contemporary leaders to grow their craft while practicing in the field and connecting with other principals across the state.

“Building these new relationships and delving into the most recent research in the field, IPLI has become a leading professional development choice for all principals. I am honored to become a part of the IPLI and ISU team leading these efforts in this new decade.” MORE
