Outstanding seniors receive Hines Medals

Six Indiana State University graduating seniors are receiving the Hines Memorial Medal this fall semester, and three additional recipients are being recognized from spring 2020. The Hines Memorial Medal is awarded to students who entered Indiana State as first-time college freshmen and are completing their bachelor's degrees with the highest cumulative grade point average.

It is named after Linnaeus Hines, the university's fourth president, from 1921-1933, and served two terms as Indiana superintendent of public instruction. The medal is awarded for the spring and fall semesters.
