Governor, President Curtis discuss how return to normal is ever closer

Governor Holcomb on Tuesday announced in a speech that anyone 16 and older will be eligible for COVID vaccines starting March 31, another sign that a return to normal is ever closer for Indiana State University.

But, Holcomb said, we're not there yet. ISU strongly encourages Sycamores to get vaccinated, which is the best way to expedite a return to normal.

With the governor also extending the mask mandate in state buildings, ISU will require masks on campus until further notice. That includes all facilities (library, residence halls, Commons, etc.). Existing exceptions such as private offices still apply.
